Worst Ice-Jam In Delaware
River In Ten Years
Threatens To Do
Damage

(International News Service)
TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 6.—
With heavy rains and rising temperatures threatening to melt millions of tons of ice too quickly, the ice jam in the Delaware river became a grave hazard to this city and upriver areas today.

The ice is packed anywhere from five to 20 feet high in this area and neither tide nor currents have budged it. Meanwhile, the water is being impounded behind the blockade upstream.

"Anything can happen now," experienced rivermen said after a survey of the solid ice-mass between Trenton and Bordentown, a distance of nine miles.

Call Ice-Breakers
The danger of hazardous floods in low-lying regions will not be relieved until the jam is broken either by the tide or pressure from waters
rushing down through the Delaware valley regions.

Two Philadelphia ice-breakers, called into service Thursday for the first time in 10 years, have been unable to smash through. They resumed operations at daybreak this morning.

Similar flood hazards prevail along courses throughout the southeastern section of Pennsylvania, according to a warning issued by Lewis E. Staley, secretary of the state department of forests and waters.

PA NEW OBSERVES
Have you noticed that the type of numbers of the new registration plates have been changed this year?
There is no chance of anyone resorting to their 1932 plates and expecting to get away with it.

"Economy" seems to be the keynote at the public library these days.
Pa. New discovered two members of the library staff cutting 12-inch squares from cardboard which had come to the library as packing boxes. The cardboard squares, when covered with binding and shoe strings,
make excellent covers for archives
in the second floor reference room.

A vase of pussywillow sprigs adds a spring-like appearance to the main reading room of the city public library.

Boys have been annoying operators of street cars in Cedar street by pulling trolleys. Boys in the Highland avenue district also have been annoying operators by riding
the rear end of the cars, according to police reports.

Pa. New observes that a change has been made in the style of dealers' license plates this year, which probably accounts for the increased number of plates bearing licenses under the 10,000 figure. In former years, the plates bore the letter X designating them as a dealer. This year the word dealer occurs in small letters under the license number.

New Castle Postmaster May Be Named Soon; Four Are Mentioned

In the near future President Franklin D. Roosevelt will send to the United States Senate the name of the man who will serve for four years as postmaster of New Castle.
Since the removal of Postmaster Lake S. MacNab, Richard Steen has been acting as postmaster, but appointment must be made shortly for the term.

Just who will drag down the juiciest political plum on the Democratic tree in Lawrence county is a question just now that could be answered by any one of four men if they were asked, but three of their answers would be wrong. Only one of them can get it, for it does seem as though the next postmaster of New Castle will come out of this group of four candidates. S. Reed McGrew, M. Louis Wallace, Van

McGrew and the acting postmaster,
Richard Steen.

Acting Postmaster Steen faces the possibility that the acceptance of the post might have a bearing on his civil service rights and pension, and he has 25 years' service on his record.

Attorney Wilbur J. Baer, state committeeman for Lawrence county Democrats, seems to be keeping a hands-off attitude. Heretofore he

WOMAN BEING HELD
(International News Service)
DETROIT, Jan. 6.—The theory that 17-year-old Charles Bertie, Central high school student, whose dead, trussed body was found in his home, may have been slain as the blood sacrifice of some strange cult,
was advanced by puzzled detectives
today.

The boy had been tortured and strangled—by two or more assassins, police believe—and his nude body trussed across a piano bench in the living room of his home.

The position of the body, as if bound on an altar, and the complete absence of any clues to a murder motive led police to advance the cult-slaying theory.

Three Being Held.
Police were holding his parents,
Mr. and Mrs. Louis Bertie, and a young woman whose name they refused to divulge.

Mrs. Bertie is a Christian Science practitioner.
Coroner Edmund J. Knobloch advanced jealousy as a possible motive.
He said he had learned through an independent investigation that the murdered boy had made some enemies among other high school students. He did not explain his statement further, and doubt he was cast on this theory when friends of the youth told detectives he seldom went out with girls, and had few girl friends.

Five Major Moves To Push Recovery Will Be Presented

President Drafts Heavy Program For Consideration
Of Congress

FINANCING ONE OF CHIEF ISSUES

Home Loan Bond Guarantee
By Government Another
Move Considered

By EDWARD B. LOCKETT
International News Service Staff
Correspondent
WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—
Five major moves to further recovery were in the formative stage today as President Roosevelt drafted a heavy legislative calendar for congress.

Important presidential decisions are involved in each instance and the president plans to make them within the coming fortnight. Then he will make recommendations to congress on each move—one at a time.

Important Steps
The most important steps concerned government financing, changes in the NRA to protect the independent business man, and the setting up of machinery to promote foreign trade.

Next week he will recommend that Congress authorize the government to guarantee both principal and interest on $4,000,000,000 of bonds now carrying a federal guarantee of interest only. These bonds are those of the Federal Farm Credi-tation administration and of the Home Owners' Loan corporation.

First of all, Mr. Roosevelt feels that the government is morally responsible for these bonds since the special session of Congress authorized two billion dollars to issue upon the bonds. He hoped to attract private capital to the securities, thus relieving the cash burden of handling them. When Congress acts to guarantee the bonds' principal, they will become, in effect, government bonds proper and thus worth virtually par.

TO PUSH LIQUOR TAX BILL IN SENATE

House Passes Tax Measure

Expect Battle In Senate Over Rate Of Taxation On Liquors

SENATE MAY VOTE EARLY NEXT WEEK

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—Senate leaders today planned to expedite action on the liquor tax bill which was approved overwhelmingly by the House yesterday.

Acceptance of the increase from $1.10 to $2.00 a gallon in the tax on whiskey and other liquors was forecast as the Senate Finance committee prepared to act on the measure, and try to have the Senate vote on its next week. Each day's delay is costing the government $750,000 in taxes.

Borah To Lead Fight
The fight in the House for both a higher and a lower tax on whiskey was expected to be renewed, with Senator Borah (R) of Idaho slated to lead a movement to raise the tax to $4.00 or $5.00 a gallon.

Wide-spread complaints of the poor quality of liquor may also result in demands for provisions to protect the consumer. Under an amendment placed in the bill by the House at the request of the treasury, stamps showing the payment of tax must be placed upon all containers. This requirement would be an additional protection to the public against the purchase of bootleg liquor.

A tax yield of $470,000,000 a year is expected under the bill. This includes the beer tax which now is yielding about $160,000,000.

A concession to beer and wine drinkers was made when the House extended the $5 a barrel tax on 3.2 per cent beer to cover all beers.

HOW'S YOUR CREDIT?

Some misinformed people refer to the Credit Exchange as an instrument of evil to force people to pay unjust debts. Nothing could be farther from the truth.

The New Castle Credit Exchange is a non-profit organization carrying on an exchange of credit information for the protection and safety of the business and professional men of Lawrence County.

Each co-operating member turns into the office of the Exchange the experience of all accounts on his books, cash or credit—good, bad and otherwise—they are all there, everybody who buys from the members of the Exchange. Upon making application for credit accommodation, the member of the New Castle Credit Exchange immediately gets in touch with the Exchange office and almost instantly is given a report on the manner in which the applicant has been paying his or her accounts.

If you have been paying promptly, you'll have no difficulty—but, if you're careless in your paying habits, you'll probably have considerable trouble in opening a credit account.

MOTION TO QUASH CONTROLLER CASE IS TURNED DOWN

the completion of the preliminary plans.

Judge Chambers says that on the motion to quash only two matters were presented that are proper for the consideration of the court, others pertaining to the case are matters that should be set forth in an answer to the writ. First, it was alleged that the proceedings should have been started in the name of the commonwealth, and not in the name of the Thayer Company. In the court's opinion there is no merit in this contention. Second, it was contended that the contract should have been submitted to the controller for his approval.

Under the act of May, 1929, it is held that the matter of securing land and erecting a court house is left entirely to the county commissioners, with the approval of the court. The controller has no discretion in the matter.

Prior to this act the commissioners could proceed after two grand juries had made a recommendation. Cambria county officials, proceeding under the former act, took preliminary steps to build a court house, but the controller of that county, refused to advertise for bids. A mandamus was secured against the controller. It was held by the supreme court in this case that the controller had no discretion in the case. Judge Chambers says that he can see no difference between the Cambria county case, so far as it relates to the controller's discretion, and that of the present case in the Lawrence county courts. If the controller had no discretion under the old act, he does not have it under the new one.

agency for NRA codes. The president feels that complaints should come initially to the NRA proper, but will ask that provision be made for routing those concerning anti-trust laws and questions to which NRA officials are unable to amicably settle in informally to the trade body.

The third of the five important matters pending before the president embraces plans for building up the organization to handle his contemplated drive for increased international trade. Three reports dealing with this problem, one drafted by George N. Peek, former agricultural administration chief, were before the president.

The fourth matter which will get early attention is the question of policy regarding the proposed merger of the communications systems. There are several bills pending before Congress which would merge all these facilities—radio, telephone, telegraph and cable facilities.

Restoration of a portion of the federal pay cut of 15 per cent was the fifth matter demanding the president's immediate attention.

WEEKLY

LETTER

Monday, January 8, 1934. The Castleton 12:15 to 1:30 p. m.

Fellow Rotarian:

After our vacation we will again meet and cast up the accounts for the past half year of Rotary.

As you recall, the President offered a prize to the committee presenting the best programs for the month. You will be asked to vote for the best month's program and the results of that vote will determine who wins the crocheted button hook.

All committees will report the progress they have made and give as a preview of the valuable work they expect to do in the months to come.

We will welcome an old member back into the fold, Sam Huey. Let us see if it will not be possible to bring back many other former members.

Don't fail to look at "The Rotarian" for the month. Pictures of four very prominent citizens of New Castle in the magazine and also an article by Governor Pinchot on his liquor store plan.

Ed. Seavy attended Philadelphia Rotary and Dusty Rhoads attended Miami Rotary.

And last but not least, dues are due.

patronage in Lawrence county, but in this instance there is little evidence to support the claim that he is backing any one candidate.

S. Reed McGowan's friends are arguing his lifelong record of service to the Democratic party as only one of his qualifications for the office, and M. Louis Wallace's friends are using the same claim. In the case of Mr. McGowan, who is younger in years, but has taken an active part in Democratic politics in this county for a number of years.

Just now the campaign of all four candidates is being pressed by themselves and their friends. These are the days when Col. Joseph Guffy of Pittsburgh is hearing from the folks in New Castle. Every one of the candidates has supporters and Col. Guffy is getting the arguments from them all.

One technically stands in the way of the President sending the name of the winner to the Senate, and that is a civil service examination. Theoretically the job goes to one of the first three high finishers in the examination. Actually this means little, for the examination is one that any of the four men mentioned could pass between courses at a lunch counter.

ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND

THE constant bombardment with statistics to which the people of the United States are subjected makes them feel at times like closing their eyes and plugging their ears to more figures, but they cannot well ignore such data as come out of this year's meeting of the National Safety Council.

When they read that in all probability 100,000 persons will meet accidental death in 1934, the possibility that many of them will be among the victims should arouse interest in the forecast. A hundred thousand lives means something.

Automobiles will cause a large percentage of the fatalities of 1934 but the auto death list will not exceed that of accidents in the home. The latter account for about 25,000 deaths each year, the causes being suffocation, burns, falls and poison. Home accidents are greater than industrial and occupational accidents combined. Railroads kill and injure 8500 trespassers in a year.

Analysis of the statistics demonstrates that we are a grossly careless people, individual indifference to personal safety and safety to others more than offsetting the reduction made in accidental deaths by organized effort to lower the hazards incurred in industry and trade. On the face of the figures the nation must turn its safety-first and accident-prevention guns upon the home and continue to keep them trained upon pedestrians and motorists.

BILLIONS!

President Roosevelt's budget message, reporting a prospective nine-billion-dollar deficit for the next two years, and announcing that the government will spend $10,569,000,000 in the year ending next June 30, is staggering even to minds grown accustomed, in the last few years, to expenditures of billions.

The recovery campaign is piling up a deficit of almost $7,500,000,000 for the present fiscal year, the message revealed, and the public debt on June 30 next is estimated at $29,847,000,000. We shall add to that debt a couple of billions or so more by June 30, 1935, bringing the total up to $31,834,000,000. This will be an all-time record for the United States, and the president is courageous in frankly announcing it.

If we didn't have the recovery problem on our hands everything would be easy at Washington. It is not difficult, by a manipulation of figures, to balance the ordinary budget of departmental expenses, but when we are expending during the present fiscal year ten and a half billions there is no way to get that money except by borrowing, and borrowing on a large scale throws budgets to the four winds. And more money must be spent, for, as the president says, "it is clear that the necessity for relief and recovery will still be with us during the years 1934-35," and "further needs of the country prohibit the abrupt termination of the recovery program."

Mr. Roosevelt wants $1,166,000,000 not included in the present budget for carrying on civil works during the winter and spring and helping out the Home Loan Bank system, but he is of the opinion that for the coming fiscal year $2,000,000,000 for relief will be sufficient, considering that there are unexpended balances on hand, and that important returns will come from loans made by the federal government.

It will startle many to learn that within six months the government will go into the market for ten billion dollars, four billions of which will be used to retire maturing obligations, says the Philadelphia Inquirer. The president is convinced that these financial operations will be successful. Nevertheless, every dollar borrowed must be repaid, and pending repayment revenue must be raised for interest requirements. How? By taxation?

Here Mr. Roosevelt distributes some crumbs of comfort. He makes no suggestion for increased taxes. He holds that government revenue, what with liquor taxes and plugging up the loopholes of income tax evasions, will be sufficient. His thought is that we should not go beyond the anticipated debt of $31,834,000,000; that by July 1, 1935, we should call a halt and proceed to liquidate; that we will then be in a position to do so.

This thought is based on the theory that there will be an increased volume of business, more general profit, greater employment and a diminution of relief expenditures. But of the millions of the jobless who have found work, a very large proportion is engaged in public projects—4,000,000 are taken care of by the Civil Works Administration.

These are temporary jobs. When they give out what then? Can the president or any other enthusiast really believe these men will find steady employment in private enterprises in sufficient numbers to relieve the situation?

THE JAPANESE PRINCE

Great rejoicing throughout Japan followed the birth of a son to the emperor and empress a few days ago, which gave the island empire an heir to the throne for which the country had prayed.

The new prince is the fifth child of the young royal couple, the four others, of whom three are living, being girls. In Japan succession to the throne is confined to the male line, and in the absence of a crown prince the heir-apparent has been the emperor's brother.

If the baby prince lives to succeed his father he will be the 124th emperor of the present dynasty, which claims continuous succession for 2,500 years. He may have to wait quite a while, however, for his father, the present Emperor Hirohito, is only 32 years old.

Hirohito, born April 29, 1901, became regent in 1921 because of his father's ill health, and succeeded to the throne upon the latter's death in 1926. His coronation ceremonies, held in Kyoto during a five-day period in November, 1928, were most brilliant, and attended by dignitaries from all over the world.

Because of Japan's aggressive policies in the Far East, the empire is morally in bad repute among the nations just now. Many fear the Japanese attitude may bring on another major war. The little crown prince, happily for him, does not know what turbulent world he has been born into.

JACK

Sometimes, when I am depressed, I think of my friend, Jack, and stings back into me.

He was my friend and I loved him, and though I shall never see him again, I could not ever forget him. He is as real to me, this instant, as if he were sitting in this little room. . . . Sitting over there in that chair. Lean and gray and so deeply lined of face, smoking a cigarette, smiling, talking so frankly about himself, so honestly about the life he had lived. I never told him in so many words, "I like you, Jack." That wasn't necessary. He knew.

You see, Jack had lived a harsh life. He had been for many years an outlaw. He was a burglar, a safe cracker, a time server in many a jail and prison, a wolf prowling through the outer darkness of our respectable lives. . . . Once, too, he had been a "dope addict." . . . But for 20 years he had been none of these things. . . . For 20 years he "went straight." . . . And yet, I always had the feeling that this friend of mine lived two lives. There was the one we could all see, the life of the successful writer, the fascinating lecturer, the maker of friends. And there was the other that was always reaching back to the darker days. He did not cut himself away from those friends he had made in other years; he could not have done that without a treachery impossible in his nature. There were times, I think, when he may have looked back with pity for that brave lost youngster who went astray so many years and wasted so much of his life. . . . But he never put that pity into words. There was no self-pity in the Jack I knew best.

Many months ago he went quietly away, in a city far from here. He had been ill, he had little money, he felt he was nearing the end; and once he told me that if he ever became convinced he was finished and could not live without dependence on his friends, he'd end his life as simply as he might light a cigarette. . . . So he went. He stood up, opened a door, and went out. Just like that. Without a word, without a conventional farewell, without excuses, without explanations. He knew there were dozens of us who would have been proud to care for him, glad to do the thing for a friend as he would have done for any of us. But he was too proud for that and we lost him. . . . And though I do not believe in suicide, and though it hurts me to remember I shall never see Jack again, still close to the heart of me I keep a secret pride in that ruthless integrity of his.

Because I am as sure as I am sure of anything that the courage and loyalty and decency of this man, this "ex-convict," added something imperishably strong and good to the lives of all who knew him.

GET GOING

You have been waiting all your life to be able to see clearly every step before you begin some undertaking you have in mind.

You have wasted years because you cannot see each step ahead. You are now as far away from accomplishment as ever because you cannot outline every step of your proposed way to the very end.

Why so afraid of an uncharted course?

If every man waited as you do the world would make little progress.

You have a general plan and if you laid out each step you might have to deviate from it.

Why not step out on the road and start—there must be a start.

Every undertaking has a beginning.

You won't begin, and that is where you are foolish.

Holding off, for some distinct guidance, is causing you to lose time.

Enabling some other person to adopt the course you are considering is what you are doing when you hesitate; you are an imitator if you proceed after that.

It is the originator that gets commendation and remuneration.

Start now, and get going, and keep going, and the way will open.

"Yes," answered Mrs. F., "and the money was mighty well spent. Those things a year from now will cost three times as much."

"Well," responded Mr. F. still smiling, "I decided to return the compliment. I have just bought for you a belt of green and red checked dress-goods. There's 80 yards in the belt and it cost only 39 cents a yard. The clerk told me there was enough to make your dresses for several years. A rubber manufacturer used to go to Canada every summer for the fishing and was met at an outpost town by the guide he had had a number of years and conducted by water to his camp nine miles away. One year the fisherman arrived at the town and brought with him a rubber boat. This was used instead of the usual rowboat, and the guide noticed the lightness of the craft and how smoothly it glided over the water. He thought to himself how much he would like to have one of his own.

Just before the manufacturer left to return to civilization he asked the guide if he would like to keep the boat. The guide assured him he would, and as the train pulled out of the station the guide turned and ran to the river bank. He jumped into the boat and started upstream, but he had gone only a short distance before he noticed how hard the boat was pulling which had not been the case before. At any rate he struggled with it and by means of hooks was able to bring it and himself to shore at his camp. What was his amazement on stepping out to have the boat shoot out of sight.

Later on investigating he found he had forgotten to untie the boat when he had jumped in and had stretched it the whole nine miles.

Administration "Takes It"
Morgenthau Hailed Now
An Unsung Roosevelt VictoryBy LESLIE EICHEL
Central Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—The Roosevelt administration "can take it" Bankers and business men jumped on it for trying to "dictate" the naming of the chairman of the board of a large Chicago bank. The administration took the "scolding" without a whimper.

But what were the facts? This bank had obtained $50,000,000 in RFC funds through the sale of preferred stock. It required the funds.

Then a majority of the directors, not wholly satisfied with earnings and management, urged the government to suggest some disinterested Chicago man to head the board.

The Reconstruction Finance corporation was reluctant. The incumbent director said: "You have the man in Washington we desire—Walter J. Cummings, chairman of the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation. He's a Chicagoan, an excellent business man."

The RFC reluctantly said, "All right."

Then minority directors—under whose administration large losses had been sustained—protested vehemently that the government was trying to "run things" and that this was the forerunner of the nationalization of banks.

In the meantime, depositors hoped those "charges" were true.

NEXT PROCESSING TAX

It looks as if the cane and beet sugar industry and corn would be the next to receive the "benefit" of a processing tax.

HAIL MORGENTHAU

Sentiment has changed greatly in Wall Street in regard to Henry Morgenthau, Jr., the new secretary of the treasury.

Financiers say that the treasury department now is operating more smoothly than at any time in months.

HOPE OF FINANCIERS

Financiers now are endeavoring to have the dollar stabilized at its present approximate value—64 per cent of its gold parity. They say that would mean immediate increase in trade.

Inflationists, however, see even a 50 per cent dollar as "too high."

ROOSEVELT VICTORY

One of the greatest of Roosevelt victories has gone almost unheralded.

For two months wholesale commodity prices declined. That was a blow to the Roosevelt policies.

But then the December figures became available. The other day—and administration leaders read that a strong reversal had occurred wholesale commodity prices had risen in December.

That, alone, probably staved off large scale inflation.

Sheriff Edward D. Pritchard has enlisted the co-operation of prisoners in cleaning up the county jail. The work includes washing the walls of the jail, which have been somewhat disfigured by writings of various kinds. Some portions of the jail walls are so high that it is impossible to get at them without scaffolding. Sheriff Pritchard is preparing to have a scaffold erected. Cells and bunks are being completely overhauled and the bars of the cells are being washed and cleaned. Prisoners are showing a willingness to work and are taking a real interest in making the jail look spic and span. There are at present 38 prisoners, including five women, two white and three colored.

Tax collections in Ellwood City have been hard during the past year on account of the shutting down of some industries and the partial operation of others. Yesterday the Ellwood City school district filed 532 tax liens against properties in the district. Since the passage of a recent law there will be no penalty attached to the tax liens, other than the six per cent interest which they draw. Formerly there was a penalty added each month in addition to the six per cent. The property owner will also have to pay the filing charges when the liens are paid off.

Claims for sheep killed by dogs are no longer filed at the county commissioners' office, but are looked after by J. W. Brewster of North Beaver township, agent for the Bureau of Animal Industry at Harrisburg. When a farmer reports that he has had sheep killed by dogs, Mr. Brewster is summoned. He makes an appraisal of the damage done and forwards it to Harrisburg. The farmer is then recompensed for his loss directly from the state department. Mr. Brewster reports that few sheep have been killed by dogs during the past year. His work also includes appraisals of damages done to cattle and hogs. The other day he was summoned to Beaver county, which is also included in his territory, to appraise some hogs that had been killed by dogs. During the past few months he also appraised a cow in the vicinity of New Bedford. The dogs had torn the udder from the cow and otherwise mutilated her so badly that she had to be shot. The money used in paying claims comes from the dog tax. Mr. Brewster also keeps a lookout for dogs upon which the tax has not been paid. Often he finds the family owning a dog so poor that they cannot take out a license. In such cases the dog is either shot or a new home is found for it with some person able to pay the tax.

District Attorney Mont L. Ailey and County Detective A. Sharp Leslie are exercising inherent economical instincts in the equipment of their offices. Yesterday they called at the county commissioners' office to see about getting three small desk lamps, the installation of which, they said, would be a big saving to the county in the consumption of electricity. The district attorney and county detective's offices are at present equipped with three ceiling lights, of 200 watts each, making 600 watts burned when all are in operation. If given desk lights they pointed out that they could get along with three of 40 watts each, or 120 watts.

Equipped with the desk light, it would be unnecessary to burn the big lights except on special occasions. They intimated they expect to have considerable night work on hands. They were authorized to get the desk lights. Both Ailey and Leslie stated that they expected to exercise strict economy in all of their work.

Prothonotary R. M. Campbell was in a reminiscent mood this morning. "Do you know," he said, "that when I came into this office it was heated by a coal stove. One of my duties was to carry in coal, lift the ashes and carry them out. The old coal stove stood at the south side of the outer office." Other offices in the courthouse were heated by coal stoves at that time. The present hot water heating system was installed when the east wing, to the south, was erected. Mr. Campbell could not remember the date.

Sheriff Edward D. Pritchard this morning tacked up some cardboard posters in his office and at the entrance to the county jail, informing the public that visiting days in the jail will be on Tuesday afternoons between the hours of two and four. During those hours friends of prisoners will be given access to the jail.

Quiet Today

Trend Of Prices Irregularly Lower; Losses Held Down To Fractions

COMMODITY MARKETS DISPLAY STRENGTH

By LESLIE GOULD
International News Service
Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—The stock market was quiet today with the trend of prices irregularly lower. Losses were held to fractions in most instances.

Tobacco shares were again subjected to consistent selling with R. J. Reynolds Tobacco B. losing another point, while Lorillard and American Tobacco B. declined fractionally.

The commodity markets displayed independent strength. The cotton market advanced about 50 cents a bale and silver nearly half a cent an ounce.

Communications shares including Western Union, American Telephone and International Telephone were comparatively quiet and showed a tendency to ease off on profit taking. Utility shares as a group were quiet and slightly easier. Consolidated Gas, Public Service and American Water works dipped fractionally.

Metal shares, specialties, and the liquors were quiet and held in a narrow range around their previous close. United States Smelting appeared to be receiving support and pushed fractionally higher.

The sharp decline reported in loadings yesterday had a depressing effect on railroad shares where losses ranging from fractions to more than a point occurred. Southern Railway ran into offerings and declined more than a point.

Could Not Recall Where He Got Drink

Alleged Evasion On Part Of Prisoner Brings 10 Days Sentence

Mayor Mayne's temper was aroused in city police court today and a man who had been arrested on a charge of intoxication was sent to the county jail for 10 days after it had been indicated that truth telling would set him free.

The man persisted he did not know where he got his first drink yesterday and whether it was from a bottle or a keg.

The mayor said every man could remember where he obtained his first drink though possibly he couldn't remember his last.

Mayor Mayne reminded the prisoner that "he had been around here a long time and ought to know the place."

Future To Have
Engines In RearRaymond Lowey, Noted In-

EXTREME LINES(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—Engines will be placed in the rear of automobiles in the near future, Raymond Lowey, noted industrial and automobile designer declared today.Lowey described the national automobile show, which opens this afternoon as the greatest exhibition of its sort to date and a fore-runner of what might be expected of automobiles in the future."Engines will be placed in the rear of the car in the near future," predicted Lowey. "The engine has no place in the front of the car. It has been located there because people were used to a buggy being drawn by a horse. If it were placed in the rear, contrary to tradition, it would assure one hundred per cent visibility, provide a smoother running automobile, contribute greater cleanliness, and be much more efficient. It would also increase acceleration and reduce fuel consumption."Lowey said the current auto show stressed genuine streamline effects.
"Most of the models are aerodynamic," he said."The streamline effort is the forerunner of the car in the future which, if exhibited now, would seem too extreme."The designer pointed out that the front seat of the models exhibited, in general, was wider, allowing a third person to sit comfortably in front.Execution Stayed
By Court OpinionDefendant In Case Of Levine
Against Kluber Given
Time To Pay TaxesStay of execution, provided certain requirements are met, was granted in an opinion by Judge R.
L. Hildebrand at county court this morning in the case of Ellis Levine against M. A. Kluber. According to the defendant he owned a property in the Sixth ward, which had an assessed valuation of $4800, and was worth in normal times, $7000.The total outstanding liens, including taxes amounted to between $2200 and $2300. Execution was issued on a mortgage. The defendant asked that the writ be stayed, on the grounds that a sheriff sale
would result in a great loss to him,
under present conditions.In staying the writ, Judge Hildebrand requires that the defendant pay up the poor, county and city taxes for 1932, and before March 1, pay the school tax. Further time is given for the payment of 1933
taxes, and if the defendant fails to clean up the taxes before March 1, 1934, the sheriff is authorized to go ahead with the execution of the writ.Fontana Wins By Opinion Of CourtVitala Fireworks Company Will Have To Pay $4,470 Additional CompensationThomas Fontana wins his case against the Vitala Fireworks Company, in an opinion handed down
at court this morning by Judge James A. Chambers. The case was based on an appeal from an award
made by the workmen's compensation referee.Fontana lost both eyes as the result of an explosion of fireworks belonging to the defendant company. The company claimed to have made an agreement with Fontana to pay him compensation, and under this agreement, paid him $2,- 030, and $525 hospital bills. Later Fontana repudiated the alleged agreement and the case went before the compensation referee, who awarded $6500.In his opinion Judge Chambers dismisses the appeal of defendants and directs the payment of $4,470 additional to Fontana, being the amount of the referee's award, less the payments already made by the fireworks company. No allowance was made for hospital bills.Hold Five Young

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—"I never

ers to reorganize the city government in the interests of economy.The mayor stoutly defended his

Great Britain Opposes Trade Barter Plans

Seeks Privilege Of Selling
All Liquor Possible In United States

U. S. DEMANDS TRADE BARGAINS

By KINGSBURY SMITH
International News Service Staff
Correspondent
WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—Great Britain today was attempting to obstruct this government's "Yankee Trader" plan of bargaining liquor quotas in return for concessions for American goods abroad.

The British government, it was made known in official quarters is objecting to the principle of bargaining for the right to ship British liquor into this country.

Britain contends that in view of its unfavorable trade balance with this country it should have the right to send as much liquor as it can find a market for without being obliged to grant any specific concessions in return.

Definite Policy
America's trade negotiators, however, have notified the British representatives that this government has adopted a definite policy of bargaining in regard to liquor quotas and that no further permits will be issued for the entry of British liquor until a bargain is reached whereby equally beneficial concessions will be granted American exports to Britain.

The British have been notified this government is particularly desirous of increasing American pork exports to Britain and is prepared to negotiate an understanding on that basis.

Following adoption of this firm stand by the trade negotiators, the British offered to increase the quota on American pork imports from 6.3 to 7.6 per cent of the total amount of pork allowed to enter the British Isles. It was intimated Britain expected in return to be permitted to ship as much liquor into this country as it could market but the hint received a frigid reception and efforts now are being made to induce the British to evidence a little more generosity.

However, the American traders fear it may be necessary to switch from pork to some other product for bargaining purposes in view of a treaty which Britain has with Denmark. Under this treaty, Britain is pledged to take from that country not less than 62 per cent of all pork imported into the British Isles.

Pre-School Survey Launched By CWA; Gives Jobs To 27

New Castle proper was being covered today by a corps of 25 census-takers, mostly unemployed school teachers, as the city's first registration of children of pre-school age began under the sponsorship of the county's CWA. Superintendent of Schools C. C. Green is aiding the survey workers as contact man.

The following 25, divided into districts, commenced the census Friday.

Mary C. Riley, Joe Solomon, Harry Levine, Iva Lord, Jean McLure, Lois Perdue, Elizabeth Hope, Mary Virginia Armstrong, Isabella Tackitt, Anetta Burry, Margaret Fisher, Elizabeth Morrow, Elma Badger, Mrs. Anna Yoho, Mrs. Teresa Shook, Mrs. Florence Hey, Henrietta Emerick, Grace Thompson, Tillie Solomon, Frances Carlin, Hilda Boden, Mrs. Nina Baldwin, Mrs. Mary Bell and Edna Mae Shaffer.

Acting as supervisor of the project is Miss S. Blanche Staats while Martin H. Mills is the timekeeper. Under orders issued by C. W. A. officials, only persons who have specific training in the field of education and preferably unemployed teachers, and women with war service, could be named as survey workers.

Uphill Battle Is Taken By Locals Joe Kelly Stars

Kelly Scores Six Field Goals To Be High Man; Spoto-vich And Milkovich Best For South

play when Joe Kelly breezed thru with his sixth field goal to put the game on ice, after Reiber and Kominich had dropped field goals.

South High had a chance to tie up the game in the final half-minute of play when Referee Harr called a double foul and Hensler missed his for South and Kelly missed his for New Castle.

Joe Kelly Stars.

The victory was unexpected here. Pittsburgh South had practically the same team that went to the finals in the state scholastic championship last year and were bent on avenging the defeat handed them at New Castle last year 26 to 23. New Castle wasn't to be denied victory last night however and much of the credit must go to Joe Kelly and Captain "Bus" Reiber. New Castle's next game is with Warren, Ohio, next Tuesday evening at George Washington floor.

South High Leads.

The end of the first period found the Pittsburgh team ahead by a score of 7 to 6. Spoto-vich and Miskovich had the field goals for the invaders and Kelly, Ridley and Battley scored field goals for New Castle.

In the second period New Castle's defense fell apart and Pittsburgh scored nine points to six for the locals, making it 16-13 at the first half. Kelly had two more field goals for New Castle and Milkovich, Spoto-vich and Miskovich did the scoring for the Pittsburgh quintet.

South High came back with a vengeance in the third period and piled up a lead of 23 to 19 as the quarter drew to a close. Milkovich has two field goals and Spoto-vich had one for the visitors. Kelly had the only field goal for the locals with Battley, Leiber and Kominich dropping fouls. Coach Bridenbaugh used Nahas and Miles as subs for New Castle replacing Battley and Kominich, but sent his regulars back into the game at the start of the fourth and final period.

Spoto-vich Chased.

South received a mortal blow in the final period when Spoto-vich's shot came, they were forced to leave the game via the four personal foul route. Coach Washbaugh used two centers before the game was over, but neither of them could equal the fast Spoto-vich. South seemed to go to pieces with Spoto-vich out of the lineup. The visitors didn't click near as well. Kelly ran wild on the two subs centers that Washbaugh sent in.

Locals Take Lead.

With only four minutes of the game remaining New Castle drew up to 25-26, and then turned on the heat with the result hanging in the balance until the final minute of the game.

Spoto-vich Chased.

South received a mortal blow in the final period when Spoto-vich's shot came, they were forced to leave the game via the four personal foul route. Coach Washbaugh used two centers before the game was over, but neither of them could equal the fast Spoto-vich. South seemed to go to pieces with Spoto-vich out of the lineup. The visitors didn't click near as well. Kelly ran wild on the two subs centers that Washbaugh sent in.

Harlansburg High Finds Going Tough At New Wilmington, New Wilmington Girls Win

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Jan. 6.—Tired after the hard game with Grove City last night, Coach John Lawther's Westminister college basketball team has to pep itself up to meet the threat of the Glenville State Teachers' college five here tonight.

Coach Rohrbraugh of the Glenville five has a rangy squad and hopes to catch the Titans off guard following the opening conference game with the Groves. Lawther will probably start his two small forwards, Leyschok and Sweeney and will use both Douglass and Bennett at center, alternating these two in order to rest them.

Next week finds the Titans facing Duquesne at the Pitt stadium pavilion on Tuesday night and Slippery Rock on the home floor Saturday night. Both contests will be hard, but the Dukes, the outstanding court team in the east, will be practically unbeatable.

At tonight's game with Glenville the student band will play for the first time this season. Professor Donald O. Cameron, director, announces. The game starts at 8:15.

St. Andrew's Men's Club Holds Meeting

Mr. Evans continued his series of talks on transportation by giving the members present an insight into the "Frame of the Car".

These talks by Mr. Evans are thoroughly enjoyed by the members of the club. Solos last night were sung by Mr. Wolford, John Hitchen, William Evans, Bob Falls and Fred Koel.

It is hoped that at least 50 members will be present next Friday night when C. W. Herman Hess will be the speaker, with another of his lively pep talks. A feature of the meeting last night was pep singing by the entire club.

There was a time, say 15 to 20 years ago, when scarcely a police constable had passed without one of the defendants having a lawyer argue in his behalf. During the past few years very few cases have come before the mayor where prisoners had an attorney. This is due to the lack of serious crimes in the city. And in commenting on this phase of police court, it has been on only a few occasions that the services of the city solicitor have been required in police court.

The surge on city hall has begun. Yes folks, the automobile salesmen have taken up their case and from now until the severest new cars have been purchased for the department of police, the mayor, chief and councilmen will be the goal of the salesmen. And after that will come the truck salesmen and after that the first hose salesmen; and how the latter explain the merits of the hose they sell. On one occasion council allowed salesmen for hose only five minutes and admitted no other salesman while any other was addressing the body which awards contracts.

Director of streets and improvements B. E. Buter has made arrangements to furnish autoists with the quickest protection possible when snow falls and hills become slippery. For instance, he has made plans to have ashes placed on a lot near the former Shenango Valley hospital and when it snows the city trucks will save time in hauling ashes to Highland avenue and North Jefferson street.

I wish to thank all my friends, whose kindness made possible the installing of a radio for me during the recent holiday season.

AROUND CITY HALL

Arm and leg power will play a big part in the recovery program not only in nearby and distant cities but also here, evidence of which can be seen at the City toolhouse, Croton avenue, where there are stacks of picks, shovels and also wheelbarrows, which are being made ready for CWA workers. The toolhouse is a building of activities. Employed there under CWA authority are blacksmiths, painters and others.

There was a convention of police dogs, held in a North Hill cartway a few evenings ago. Four of them romped around a crowd of boys, one of whom had one of the dogs go through a number of "Rin Tin Tin" tricks. No doubt the dogs were in conference over the rumor that a police dog's license would cost $25 this year. The rumor is false, according to officials. According to some reports some police dog owners planned to give their dogs away. The license costs no more than the amount for any other dog, officials say.

Persons who satisfy their thirst with eight and nine percent beverages probably never give a thought to how the beer or ale from the barrel reaches their mouth, but Harold Dunlap, inspector of plumbing knows. It is his duty to inspect all plumbing in all buildings and before any place can use their pipes he must put approval on the work. He has made inspections at every place where beer is sold. The sanitary condition of the establishments is watched by Chauncey Davis of the health bureau.

Should the readers see five different versions about the same thing some day do not become alarmed. It will be a case of the reporter having interviewed the five different councilmen in their private office, five in number.
